

ives Pros - Cons On Amendments

By J. D. McCullough

Mississippians will be confronted with a choice of amendments to the constitution on November 6th with one of the most important, far-reaching amendments being the one which they have faced in this century when they voted on the proposed constitutional amendment.

If passed, would the State Board of Education be abolished and the present elected State Board of Education be replaced by a board of nine members, three members of the Governor, three members of the Legislature, and three members of the public? The constitution of 1890 set up a three-man State Board of Education elected by the people, consisting of the Attorney General, the Secretary of State, and the State Superintendent of Education. The proposed constitutional amendment would set up a board consisting of nine members, three members of the Governor, three members of the Legislature, and three members of the public. The amendment would be approved by the people.

As Superintendent of City Schools, I feel that I have a duty to advise both pro and con, as they are to HCR 30. Since there are two sides to this proposition, I am first going to summarize the arguments advanced by the proponents and then I shall summarize those advanced by the opponents. Here are the arguments advanced by those who are in favor of the amendment.

It would give a broader base of support for public education. It would serve to take public education out of politics and place them on a more professional basis.

The lay board members would have more interest and effort to put into the activities of the Board than do the present ex officio members. The responsibility for administering and supervising public education is too great for a three man board.

I believe the foregoing constitutes the principal arguments for the proposed board. Now for the reasons advanced by those who oppose the proposal:

1. The Advisory Committee to the Legislative Study Committee that studied this particular problem recommended against the expanded board at this time. In short, this committee recommended further study of the problem.

2. There is serious doubt that an appointive board would take public education out of politics but, to the contrary, could put it into a type of politics not answerable to the people.

3. There is apprehension that an appointive board could lead to the control of public education by cliques or vested interest groups.

4. There is concern that the proposed method of selecting the Board members is not the best that could be devised. Many doubt the wisdom of completely eliminating the present board members.

5. There is concern over the probability that certain present day pressure groups would immediately demand representatives on an appointive board.

6. There is doubt as to the practicability of an elective Chief State School Officer serving as an executive secretary to an appointive board and some apprehension that this is the first step toward appointing the Chief State School Officer.

As for my personal convictions, I have never been opposed to the principle embodied in an expanded Board of Education; but I am of the firm opinion that the matter needs further study, particularly in view of the conditions prevailing at this time. Leading citizens who defend our constitutional elective State Board of Education are not particularly concerned about whether there are three members, five members, seven members or nine members on the Board. They are greatly concerned, however, that the Board, regardless of the number of members, be elected by the people, thereby maintaining a close liaison between the citizens of the state and their public school officials. Whatever decision is made by the people, I am confident that their decision will be to the best interest of public education. Whatever that decision may be, we must all join hands to keep public education unfettered and responsive to the needs of the time.

As Superintendent of City Schools, I feel that I have a duty to advise both pro and con, as they are to HCR 30. Bicyclist Struck By Motorist

A nine-year old Bay St. Louis boy was injured about 9:30 a. m. Saturday when struck by an automobile while riding his bicycle on Beach Blvd., near the intersection of U. S. Highway 90.

Deputy Sheriff Gerard Freeman said Robert Koch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Koch Jr., of 647 North Beach was struck by a 1962 Falcon which was traveling south on the beach. Freeman identified the driver of the car as Joseph Blanchard, 103 Leonard Avenue.

Robert, who sustained head and nose injuries and a possible leg injury, was taken to Hancock General Hospital by Patrol Inspector Jack Mullinix, of the Gulfport office of the U. S. Border Patrol. Inspector Mullinix passed by shortly after the accident occurred, Freeman said, and rushed the boy to the hospital.

Freeman reported Blanchard told him the youth darted into his path riding his bicycle and he was unable to stop in time to avoid striking the boy.

Freeman said the case is still under investigation.

The women of Hancock General Hospital Auxiliary have provided a "cheer cart" at the hospital to handle incidental needs of patients, not furnished by the hospital, also numerous gifts that can be purchased by patients or guests.

Three cars of the fast freight train plunged into the waters of the Bay of St. Louis.

Tom Mitchell, L&N station agent at Bay St. Louis, said no one was injured in the accident which occurred about 1,000 feet south of the draw on the Bay St. Louis side of the span.

The three cars, a tank car loaded with petroleum and two box cars, were located about midway in the line of 175 cars of the train, Mitchell said. The accident caused some damage to the span, and the delay of two passenger and two fast freight trains, Mitchell reported.

When contacted Tuesday afternoon, Mitchell said two of the cars had been raised and the third would probably be salvaged later in the day.

Find Jewel Cases Floating In Bay

Chief Deputy Sheriff Gerald V. Price Jr., said empty cases identified by New Orleans police officers as the ones which contained approximately $50,000 worth of rings and pendants which disappeared from a jewelry salesman's hotel room in New Orleans, were found floating in the Bay of St. Louis near the toll bridge.

Milton M. Epstein, salesman from Atlanta, told New Orleans police Monday night that the cases were found floating in the bay near the toll bridge.

Price, who reported the theft Monday night of a bag of cash from the Gulf Chevrolet lot on U. S. Highway 90.

There was a possibility, he said, that the theft of the bag of cash might be linked with the jewelry cases.

Price reported the cases were open and empty, were spotted floating in the bay and picked up by Malcolm Coward of North Beach Blvd., later Monday evening.

The cases, Price reported, appeared to have been thrown in the water only a short while before they were found as they were scarcely wet.

Price also reported the theft Monday night of a bag of cash from the Gulf Chevrolet lot on U. S. Highway 90.

From the looks of things the past few days the anxiously awaited cooler weather should be with us. Both the fishing and hunting is best when the weather and water are cooler. Both salt and fresh water fish bite and hit best and are more plentiful.

Shrimp have been running better and some excellent bait has been gotten by those who catch their own bait.

Among those reporting good catches of specks, etc. are Jimmy O'Brien and Perry Quantini. They were hauling them in Saturday out at the marshes.

Mrs. Janel Kern told us of catching one big speckle and 18 white trout at Long Beach last week. She said she had a good time.

Having a field day Saturday August Rauxet and son Nickey with yours truly caught 225 lbs of speckles. They were caught on live bait which were iced packed. Some of the specks weighed 2 1/2 pounds.

J. A. Becker and brother also

Bill Johnson says he has caught lots of fish but Monday was the first time he has caught a stringer. He was awakened at 4 p. m. by the sound of hoof beats in his yard. Venturing out he caught and tied the horse to a tree. Later he found out that the horse belonged to Dr. Quigley. Both men had a good laugh over the incident. Moral: Don't feed other people's horses, Bill!

Coming to golf, Mr. and Mrs. Roger W. Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Martin of Pass Christian enjoyed a hot round of golf Sunday afternoon. They are members of the Pass Christian Isles Club and play frequently. Who wins is debatable said Roger.

Patrick Glover visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Glover is home on a 2 months vacation. He is in Washington in the office of Senator Eastland. Pat is catching up on his sports while here.

Steve Roberts an up coming young golfer at Saint Stanislaus made a score of 107 which is plenty good for a rank beginner. Keep plugging, Steve.

Some of those enjoying golf Sunday were Dr. and Mrs. Griffin, Mr. and Mrs. John David, Alden Mauffray, Miss Catherine Purcher, Mike Rifferty and guests. All agreed that the 19th hole was the best.

Saturday was the opening date for squirrel and rabbit hunting.

The ladies who sponsored the annual fall and winter costume contest at the Pass Christian High School are planning to hold a similar event at the Pass Christian High School in the near future.

Joe Kern is enjoying his boat to go hunting and fishing. Joe loves both sports and gets his share of game.

Understand Albert Hill, former resident now of Mobile was over for the weekend. Could at least come around and say hello Albert.

Gilly Gilmore says he goes fishing but never at the right time. Better go with someone who knows Gilly, there are plenty fish now.

In answer to those who ask, "Where's my fish," it would be a good idea to go with us sometime and help catch them. When offered fish they usually ask, "are they cleaned?" We good Samaritans do just that thing in most cases. Have patience.

While coming in to fish where other boats are its a good idea to ease in, drop the anchor lightly, don't drop things on the bottom of the boat. We are told that fish are immune to noises but are easily scared by vibrations in the water. While fly fishing wear dark clothes as white shirts etc. are seen by the fish in clear water. Observe these rules and your fishing will improve immensely. Now that trolling is in order speed the other fellow and slow down your motor when passing others trolling. Be a good sport.

THAT'S A WONDERFUL STORY!

Yes, that's a wonderful story. Maybe he'll be president some day, or like the man in the story-book. Maybe his picture will one day be shown in an historic sketch—a flashback of the life of someone famous.

It could be you. It could be your own child, or someone you know. The young have dreams, the old have visions. But, from young dreams come realities.

The greatest reality is God. He is waiting . . . for you. He waits in your church. Relive the dreams of long ago this Sunday . . . in church we call those dreams, prayers! For prayer is often but a wish, and frequently a silent "thank you" signed to God. You can face stern realities with stronger faith, if you have that faith renewed—often.

FORECAST

The October 1 forecast for Mississippi cotton is 500,000 bales of 500 pounds each, the same as on September 1. The crop is turning out a little less than expected in the Delta and in some central and western counties, but these are offset by smaller indicated yields in many northeastern and western counties of the State. The same as on September 1, 587,880 running bales were produced prior to October 1, about 1 percent of the total forecast production. The crop matured early this year and gladdens to October 1 were the largest since 1961.

Steelworkers earned $4.75 more per week in 1961 than they did in 1960, not including fringe benefits. The average steelworker earned $123.45 per week in 1961.

In The Matter of A Thirty-foot Road Running Northerly From the Lower Bay Road, Property of Clyde Ladner

This matter came on to be heard on affidavits of various citizens, who are acquainted with the road in question, with affidavits of attempts to establish the fact that said road is a public road of the County.

Counter-affidavits submitted opposite and contrary to the evidence hereinabove referred to, were likewise filed and presented to the Board.

The Board heard evidence of both sides of this issue and recessed its meeting for a personal investigation of the conditions existing at the particular place in question.

The Board then visited the road and finds as follows, to-wit:

1. Both sides, to this controversy, admit that said road has been in existence fifty to sixty years.
2. That said road was used by the predecessors in title to Clyde Ladner and by Clyde Ladner, himself for over fifty years.
3. That the road had been ditched on either side and, at the point or place where said road meets the lower Bay Road, there is evidence of oyster or clam shells having been placed, extending in a northerly direction down said road for approximately thirty to forty feet.
4. That at various times said road, at issue, under the evidence before the Board, was worked and/or graded under the public authorities of the County or their workmen. That such work, to a great extent, had accrued under previous administrators of the County affairs.

Therefore, the Board does find determine and adjudicate that said road does exist. That because of the facts, hereinabove determined, it is further adjudged that the property in question is entitled to a road because of the use of same, the maintenance by the County, and by virtue of the fact that said property has no other outlet than the one in question.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that the affidavits of the proponents of this issue be sustained. That the county-affidavits be dismissed. BE IT SO ORDERED.

The motion for the above being made by Supervisor Levinghouse and duly seconded by Supervisor Frierson and unanimously adopted by the Board.

Mississippi's industrial working arm now flexes a billion-dollar muscle

Mississippi industry has developed a billion-dollar muscle. Not only do industrial sales total $1 billion and account for 20% of the state's present business volume of $5 billion, but industry exerts a "billion-dollar" influence on the growth and development of this state. Industry's tax dollars help build better schools, libraries, hospitals and other public buildings—and a major contribution is made toward modern highways, city streets and recreational areas. In addition, personal opportunity and advancement is offered by industry. In the past five years, 600 new or expanded plants have been announced that account for more than 45,000 new jobs and provide an annual payroll in excess of $100 million. Everyone benefits from industry—Mississippi's billion-dollar muscle.
